

THE ONLY WOMAN'S PAGE

SOROSIS'S SOCIAL DAY.

"MODERN INNOVATIONS ON HOME LIFE"
THE QUESTION DISCUSSED.

A CLUBWOMAN WHO LAMENTED THE INROADS
MADE ON THE HOME BY CLUB LIFE IS
"WIPE OUT" BY HER OPPONENTS.

The members of Sorosis met at the Waldorf at 12 o'clock yesterday for their monthly breakfast, and at 2 o'clock they assembled in the new ballroom to discuss the effects of modern innovations on home life. The question was presented by Alice May Scudder, and then taken up in the attractive by Susan Hayes Ward, Helen Grandin Lord, Mary Dame Hall and Alice B. Stimson, and in the negative by Susan Ketchum Bourne, Gertrude F. Hess, Mrs. Charles W. Bassett and Katherine G. Townsend, M. D.

Mrs. Ward contrasted the conditions of women and children in the modern home and the home of the good old times, and thereby arrived at the conclusion that things are immeasurably better as they are than they have ever been before.

"Homes are more comfortable places for the children now," she said, "than they were in old New-England days." Old people are younger, and young people are older, and the intercourse between them is pleasanter than formerly. A boy would never think now of addressing his father as "honored and revered parent." The children have improved in health, too, in the light of modern hygienic science, and where our forefathers had fourteen little ones, eleven of whom died, we now have a carefully reared family of three or four.

"The modern home is also a better place for the woman for it is a republic, whereas the old one was a monarchy, the father being the bugbear and ogre, the spoiled monarch on his throne, in whom all the others lived and moved and had their being."

Mrs. Bourne conceded the material benefits of modern innovations, but maintained that they had increased our wants a hundred fold. The ideal home, she thought, was not dependent on stationary tubs and hot water, and the Puritan parlor, with its straight-backed, hair-covered chairs, set back against the wall, appeared to her a good vista of shady spaces, when compared with the modern overcrowded drawing-room. She also attacked the second bedroom, with its lack of space, air and light, and the objection of its landlord to children.

Mrs. Lord vigorously defended the "so-called abomination," the apartment-house, maintaining that it placed within the reach of the moderate income all the improvements of modern science. Mrs. Hess lamented the increase in the cost of living, and the expense of the modern home, and the report that a society for staying at home had been formed in Boston.

"Homes are broken up," she declared, "that the home-maker may obtain leisure for lectures and clubs, and even babies of six are smitten with the fever, and can only make his advances under the cover of a hundred excuses."

Mrs. Hall spoke of only two innovations—the club and the bicycle—both of which, she maintained, had been beneficial to the home, the first being helpful in all departments of life, and the second bringing health, happiness and cheerfulness.

Mrs. Hassett argued that modern innovations had not touched the real home life, housekeeping and housewifery being two different things. An ideal home might exist with the leaves of the forest for a roof and the running stream for a brook, and while the modern home was a place of luxury, the old one was a place of necessity.

Mrs. Stimson contrasted the subject humorously, saying a ride in the elevated train ought to be a sufficient answer to the question, for if a carefully studied, it proved that the modern home was a place of luxury, and the old one was a place of necessity.

Dr. Townsend pointed out the dark side of some modern innovations, dwelling on the appalling condition of city cellars, the injurious effects of furnace heat and the fish that accumulates in water-pipes.

The extemporaneous discussion was participated in by Mrs. Sarah Ostrom, Mrs. Brown, president of the Chitreaux Club, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Anna Randall-Dani, Miss Anna Allen, Mrs. Johnson, of Los Angeles, and Miss White, of Maine.

Mrs. Ostrom said that the greatest and most beneficial of modern innovations was a remark of one speaker to the effect that modern mothers had no time to make mincepies and other good things, said that, although she was a member of Sorosis, of a hospital board and several other bodies, she had, nevertheless, found time one year to make all the mincepies for her own, her daughter's and her sister's families.

Preceding the discussion the following programme was rendered:

Song, Miss Allen, Henrietta C. Turbill, accompaniment, recitation, scene from "School for Scandal," Act III, Scene 1 (Sternberg), Carolyn A. Padlock, song, "I Ette" (Chaminade), Miss Florence de la Turner.

BROOKLYN TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.
The Brooklyn Teachers' Association held its first meeting yesterday and discussed "Elementary Latin," by Principal Behn, form the programme for to-day.

This course is intended to assist teachers preparing for the "A" examination. It will consist of five lessons and it will be concluded immediately preceding the next examination.

Wednesday, January 6—"Elementary Greek," Mr. Flint, 4 p. m., Boys' High School, Putnam corner Marcy-ave. Reading circle in psychology, conducted by Miss Laxonoff, 4 p. m., Public School No. 11.

Thursday, January 7—"French," third year, Professor Cretaux, 4 p. m., Public School No. 15, "German," first year, Professor Thirring, 4 p. m., Public School No. 10.

Friday, January 8—"Latin," second year, Mr. Behn, 4 p. m., Public School No. 15.
Three courses in drawing of ten lessons each will be given by the association: "Elementary Drawing," Miss Ida E. Boyd, instructor, commencing January 13, "Decorative," Miss Annie L. Young, instructor, commencing February 15, "Decorative," Miss Kate F. Pierce, instructor, commencing February 22.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS.

HOW TO SERVE OYSTERS.

Oysters are very seldom breaded and fried at home in a perfect manner. The mistake which most cooks make is to incase them in egg and bread crumbs. This is seldom a success. The coating comes off, giving to the oysters a plebeian appearance, and they are usually overcooked in the attempt to brown them evenly.

For a dish of fried oysters, select sound oysters which have just been opened. It is more essential that the oysters shall be fine flavored than that they shall be large, though large oysters are desirable. Flatten each oyster slightly and lay them in fresh milk while you prepare a mixture of equal parts of sifted cracker crumbs and flour. Oyster crackers, or the richer butter crackers, are good for this purpose. Let the fat be very hot. Drain the oysters one by one out of the milk, and dip them into the pulverized crackers and flour. Lay them in a wire basket and immerse them in the hot fat for two or three minutes.

Drain them, lay them for a minute on coarse brown paper, and slip them on a folded napkin and place them on a hot platter. Garnish them with a little parsley and quarters of lemons.

The folded napkins which are laid on platters for the reception of fried articles should be of some cheap quality, kept for this purpose. They should be about half a yard square and half a dozen will be enough for use in a family.

When fried articles have been properly cooked and drained, the napkins will hardly be greasy, but they are intended to absorb any remnant of grease. The whitest, crispest cloth is also a delightful accompaniment.

ST. PAUL'S CHAPEL.
VISITED BY HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE DURING THE HOLIDAYS.

St. Paul's Chapel, the great attraction in Broadway, corner of Vesey-st., was visited during the holidays by hundreds of women sightseers.

This chapel was built in 1755 by Trinity Corporation, and is the oldest church edifice in the city. Trinity congregation has occupied this chapel several times while its own edifice was in process of reconstruction. Here divine service was conducted in 1788, immediately after the inauguration of Washington, and also in 1883 at the centennial celebration of that event. During the early part of his Administration, the first President worshipped in the pew which is situated under the gallery at the northern side of the chapel, about halfway between the chancel and the vestry, and adorned by a fresco of the American Eagle.

Governor George Clinton occupied the pew directly opposite that of Washington.

The churchyard adds to the venerable appearance of the chapel. Under the portico at the rear of the chapel are the remains of General Richard Montgomery, who was killed in 1776 while storming Quebec, and on the wall above is a tablet erected to his memory by order of Congress.

At the left stands a monument to Thomas Addis Emmet, the brilliant Irish patriot, who came to America soon after his release from imprisonment in Ireland and established himself here in the practice of law. Dr. MacNevin, Emmet's companion and fellow-sufferer, has a monument at the right. The actor, George Frederick Cooke, is also buried in this churchyard.

On the three following evenings, The three prizes of the recently closed Carmelite Fair will be allotted next Friday. One of these is a work of art, presented by the Pope, the other is an excursion ticket to Europe. Every admission ticket to the entertainment gives a share in the prizes.

Many of the churches in Brooklyn are holding special revival services this week.

A new evening school for women opened last night at No. 125 East Fifty-seventh-st. Instruction is given free in reading, writing, dressmaking and stenography. There are classes for beginners and advanced pupils in the last two studies. The people of this district have long been anxious to take up such a course.

The Silver Cross Circle met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rita Ottson-Warren, No. 154 West Sixty-eighth-st. The subject discussed was "Temperance Work Among Children."

An eclipse of the sun will occur on February 1, and will be visible in New-York at 1:34 p. m., but not distinctly, even with the aid of a glass.

Articles of incorporation for the German-American Non-Sectarian Orphan Society were sent to Albany yesterday. The society has arranged to have four weddings of orphan girls take place at ST. PAUL'S CHURCH—A PEEP AT LIFE AS IT IS.

From The Century.

Love took chambers on our street
Where he met on a poster blue:
"I haven't an idea who I am,
And who the deuce are you?"

"I'm the 'Bradley' girl to the Bradley boy;
'Til tell you what I think
I came into being last week
With a cat tied up the ink."

—Robert B. Peattie in The Clack Book.

What he met on a poster blue:
"I haven't an idea who I am,
And who the deuce are you?"

"I'm the 'Bradley' girl to the Bradley boy;
'Til tell you what I think
I came into being last week
With a cat tied up the ink."

—Robert B. Peattie in The Clack Book.

What he met on a poster blue:
"I haven't an idea who I am,
And who the deuce are you?"

USES FOR PARISIAN CATS.

PRIZED AS PETS, BUT MANY FIND THEIR WAY TO THE RESTAURANT KITCHENS.

An exhibition of cats is to be held shortly at the Jardin d'Acclimation. This suggests the subject of the cat's social position in France, says a correspondent of "The Boston Transcript." Since the Revolution the animal has conquered in this country "toutes les libertés," excepting that of wearing an entire tail, for in many districts it is the fashion to cut it short. In Paris cats are much cherished wherever they can be without causing too much unpleasantness with the landlord. The system of living in flats is not favorable to cat culture, for the animal, not having every access either to the tiles above or to the gutter below, is likely to pine for want of fresh air and the society of its congeners. In a well-ordered Paris house occupied by numerous tenants a cat does not put foot upon the stairs, and even the mildest suggestion of feline neighborhood in the atmosphere is enough to make ill-natured localities call at arms. It is the privilege of those who live on ground floors to be able to keep cats, and it is one that is largely taken advantage of. Probably in no other city do these animals lie in shop windows and on counters with such an arrogant air of proprietorship. In restaurants a very large and fat cat is kept as an advertisement of the good feeding to be obtained on the premises. There is invariably a cat in a charbonnier's shop, and the animal is generally one that was originally white, but long ago came to the conclusion that all attempts to keep itself clean were hopeless.

Its consolation is that it is never blacker than its master. It is well known that the long-haired variety of cat called Persian or Angora is much esteemed in Paris, and it is used to some extent for sale. It is of so amiable a character that it is supposed to turn its back upon a mouse, so that it may not be tempted to do violence. In the provinces French cats are usually very low-bred animals, with plebeian heads and tails, the stringlike appearance of the latter not being improved by cropping.

Although not generally esteemed as an article of food in France, there are still many people scattered throughout the country who maintain that a civet de chat is as good, or better, than a civet de lèvre. To practice the illusion upon the public that it is a hare, they are careful to keep head, tail and claws out of the dish. The weakness of Baudelaire and Théophile Gautier for cats was quite of another kind. So is that of the poet François Coppée for these renowned serenaders and soothers of the ear of night. The inspired old scribe would not let one of his brother Académiciens as a cat, for to him the animal is as sacred as it was to the Egyptians of old. The society of his feline pets is to him ever delightful and consoling, and it may have inspired him to write some of his most melodious verses. Nevertheless, he is not the cat's poet. This honor belongs to Charles Cros, who wrote:

Chante blanche, chatte sans tache,
Je te demande dans ce vers
Quel secret dote dans tes yeux
Ces regards doux et moutonnés.

Is not this charming, fanciful and feline? There are some people so prejudiced against all culinary preparations of cat that they make a point of never asking for a rabbit or hare in a Paris restaurant. There is reason for such excessive caution in restaurants of rather low degree. A few years ago a butcher in the Palais Royal quitted his business to go to prison for having tried to put a very fine Angora cat for lamb upon a restaurateur whom he was in the habit of supplying. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father gave an order for the immediate execution of the animal. He then thought of some way for that had been forgotten, and having a grudge against the butcher, called in an inspector, and the result was what has been already mentioned. The cat was killed, and the restaurateur, a kind and tender-hearted father